WELCOME MESSAGE

Dear Distinguished Scholars, Engineers, Colleagues, and Interested Experts!

On behalf of the Conference Organizing Committee, it is my pleasure to invite the outstanding researchers, academic people, industrialists, and NGOs, etc. from all over the world to attend this conference on Recycling and Waste Management.

Industrialization being promoted from the 18th century has improved material affluence having been promoted through resource extraction from nature and discharge of waste to nature which result in deteriorating the original quality of nature. This implies that humans are beneficiaries and victims of industrialization because nature can exist without humans, but humans can't survive without nature. This means that humans have committed a self-contradiction.

In order to solve the self-contradiction, the Earth Environment Summit 1992 has adopted sustainable development as the ideology and practice of the present and future socio-economic development toward the coexistence between humans and nature at a global level. Nonetheless, environmental problems caused by human intervention in nature are still challenging us. This is evidenced from climate change being got worse, ozone depletion, and natural disasters, etc.

The theme of this conference, Recycling and Waste Management, is a core means to establish a resource circulation society towards sustainable development. In such a context, it is no doubt that this conference will be a significant and valuable platform not only advancing the knowledge of this field through presentation and discussions, but also contributing to sustainable development at a global level through providing the advanced knowledge applicable to the field.
